TO BETTER COMMUNITY, EDUCATE THE PEOPLE

Such is Argument of Prof. Bach In Speech To Athene Club

DESCRIBES HIS WORK

Sociological Superintendent of Collieries Company Discusses "Social Welfare

That the relation of the social worker to the community is that pertaining to education for the betterment of the conditions of the people composing the community, was the argument presented by Prof. E. E. Bach, sociological superintendent of the Ellsworth Collieries company in an address to the members of the Athene club Friday afternoon. His subject was "The Relation of the Social Worker to the Comunity." The meeting of the Athene club was held at the home of Mrs. R. C. Mountsier on Fallowfield avenue. Several visitors were present.

In having the talk by Prof. Bach the general study of "Italy," in which the Athene club has been engaged during the season, was varied. The afternoon's subject was "Social Welfare." Mrs. Thomas G. Brown, president of the club was in the chair. Musical numbers were charming features. Miss Ethel Hawthorne of California, soprano, was the vocal soloist of the afternoon, contributing two beautiful numbers. Miss Adele Heupel and Miss Bertha Haines played a piano duet in fine style.

Prof. Bach described to some extent his work among the people of the Ellsworth community, where he is at the head of educational work. In his talk he mentioned something of the liquor problem and gave some advanced ideas gleaned from personal observation on the best methods of caring for it.

In his reference to liquor, Prof. Bach described the nature of the drink loving foreign people. Their idea of hospitality he said was to give a visitor a drink. He suggested that the way to overcome this difficulty was to educate the foreign people through their children of the evil effects of drink.

Prof. Bach discussed the playgrounds question, and told of methods of providing for the play for American and foreign children so that everything would be agreeable. This difficulty might be avoided by establishing playgrounds equally well patronized by American and foreign children.

The whole object of education in a community, argued Prof. Bach is to make good citizens. It is not necessary he stated that a social worker be a teacher, but he or she be an influential and earnest endeavorer for good of the community.

Lid On At California

Burgess Clamps Down on Sunday Selling in the Normal Town

The lid is to be put on at California and Burgess W. H. Maheney of the normal town has issued a mandate which states that the so-called "blue laws" will be enforced so far as Sunday selling is concerned. The statement of the burgess notifies all merchants and places of business, drug stores and restaurants excepted, to keep closed all day Sunday. Merchants are requested to discontinue all games of chance, and all automatic vending machines must be kept off the streets Sunday.

CHARLEROI GOES DOWN TO DEFEAT

High School Team Beaten 33 to 26 on Monongahela Floor

LARGE CROWD PRESENT

A combination of circumstances defeated the Charleroi high school basketball five at the Monongahela Armory Friday night. The combination included five of the fastest basketball players in Washington county outside of Charleroi, a funny floor and bum luck. The trouble might be blamed superstitiously on Friday the thirteenth, only that would not be consistent. The score was 33 to 26, which by the way, was not nearly as good a score as Charleroi rolled up against Monon when Monon played in Charleroi.

Fully 200 of the best supporters a team ever had went from Charleroi to the game. Many of them got in. Some of them did not, for the Monongahela crowd got to the Armory first, and after that there was not much room left for anybody else—even the officials. Close to 600 people got in before Capt. Hartland, who bosses the shebang known as the Armory began to get worried.

After the Charleroi team, Coach Lorimer, Umpire Wagner, and a good bunch of rooters had squeezed in, and Referee Larimer had said "ready," an argument started. Monongahela has a funny basketball floor and they have a habit of making the foul line clear to the walls at the ends, when their baskets are about four feet out from the wall. Coach Lorimer and everybody that was from Charleroi objected. Arguments waxed and waned. Three times Referee Larimer blowed his whistle to start the game and set a time limit for Charleroi to

CIRCUMSTANCES IN DROWNING UNUSUAL

Californian Disappears From Work Suddenly---Absence Not Noted Until His Hat is Seen Floating in River

Van Miller a well-known young man of California was drowned in the Monongahela river Friday at the Globe mine near Roscoe. The details surrounding the accident will never be known as no one witnessed the tragedy. His hat floating on the water told the tale of what had happened. He leaves a wife and one small child.

Mr. Miller who was 25 years of age was employed as riverman for the Globe mine and had been working as usual. About 9 o'clock he could not be found and the men working about the tipple became alarmed and started a search. Soon Miller's hat was seen floating on the water and then the searchers felt sure that something had happened to Miller.

Grapping irons were secured and the river dragged about the tipple and at 11:30 o'clock the body was brought to the surface. The body was taken to the undertaking establishment of J. E. Hines at Coal Centre and prepared for burial and later taken to his home. No arrangements have been made for the funeral but it is likely that the services will be held Monday or Tuesday. A brother resides in the west and the family is awaiting word from him before the arrangements are completed. The interment will be in the Monongahela cemetery.

HIGH SCHOOL LITERARY HAS GOOD MEETING

The high school literary society this afternoon presented an interesting literary program at the high school auditorium. Following is the program that was rendered:

Song, society; debate, Resolved, that the United States should enforce the literary test for immigration," affirmative Queen Wilson and Harry Carson, negative Edith Kew and John Lutes; recitation, Ruth Redd; essay Elizabeth Hall; violin solo, Willie Tomlinson accompanist, May Mitchell; recitation, Mary Welch; periodical Aubrey Clerihue; vocal solo, "The Rosary," Buelah Buchanan, accompanist, Prof. I. T. Daniel.

ROSCOE MUSICIAN FINISHES SERVICE WITH U. S. NAVY

David P. Sheba, one of Roscoe's young men reached home this week after spending four years playing in the navy band on board the U. S. war vessel, the Kansas. During this time he has been at Liverpool, Cherbourg in France, touched at Kiel, Germany, at Kronstadt, Russia, and Genoa in Italy. Within the last few months he visited Cuba, Hayti and his vessel lay three weeks at Vera Cruez along with nine other first class U. S. battleships and with war vessels of England, France, Germany, Italy and Spain.

As the result of so much playing, a rehearsal and three concert's daily Mr. Sheba has become one of Roscoe's best musicians, if not the best. He will accept a position in the Westinghouse band of Pittsburg. He is at Roscoe for a visit of a few weeks with his parents.

ROOTING SECTION IS COMPLIMENTED

Charleroi high schools rooting section was warmly complimented at Monongahela high school Friday night at the basketball game there. Cheer leader Ellsworth Hickey was at his best and the excellent systematic cheering that was done was largely due to his efforts.

RAILROAD MEN GROW FAMOUS AS CLIMBERS

Records just compiled of careers of the 170 ranking officers of the Pennsylvania Railroad system gives striking evidence of the policy the company pursues in training men, and of the opportunities open to men in the service. Of the 170 officers, 163, among whom should be mentioned the president of the company, started at the bottom.

This census of Pennsylvania officers now in active service shows that four of them have worked for the railroad more than fifty years They are: J. B. Hutchinson, assistant to the vice president in charge of real estate, purchases and insurance, Pennsylvania railroad; A. L. Langdon, traffic manager, Long Island railroad; E. T. Postlehwaite, assistant to the president, Pennsylvania railroad; E. A. Dawson manager, Star Union Line.

Each of the five vice presidents of the Pennsylvania Lines West of Pittsburg, who have just been elected, has been in the service of the Railroad more than 40 years. Every one of them began at the bottom of the railroad ladder.

J. J. Turner, first vice president, began work for the Pennsylvania as a ticket sorter; E. B. Taylor, second vice president started as a clerk; D. T. McCabe, third vice president as clerk; G. L. Peck, fourth vice president and A. M. Schoyer, resident vice president at Chicago began as messengers.

Twenty-two of thecompany's officers have been in the company's service between 40 and 50 years, 57 between 30 and 40 years, and 59 between 20 and 30. Thirty of these 170 officers are between 60 and 70 years old, 61 between 50 and 60 years, 62 between 40 and 50 and 17 between 30 and 40 years of age.

HUNDREDS ATTRACTED TO SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT

Ninth Street Pupils Presented in Miscellaneous Program

MUSIC PRIME FEATURE

Songs, Drills and Playlet Prove Enjoyable---Fifth Street Night Is Next

From six or seven hundred people gathered at the high school auditorium Friday evening to attend the first entertainment of a series to be given by the Charleroi school children. The entertainment Friday night was given by the pupils of the Ninth street school. Elaborate costuming was in order. New scenery enhanced the beauty of the hall. The following program was rendered:

Boys Chorus, "The Clang of the Forge," sixth and seventh grades; "A Japaneze Wedding," consisting of ceremonious rites, gone through by the go-between or servant of the groom's family by pupils of the first and second grades; handkerchief drill, by third grade boys; minuet by fifth grade pupils; song, "The Workers," by fifth grade pupils; Spanish tambourine drill, by third grade girls; playlet, "The Gypsy Festival" by the fourth grades, the plot showing an early morning scene in a gypsy camp and the adoption of a Yankee peddler by the tribe; a lullaby from "Drminie' by sixth and seventh grade girls.

In "A Japaneze Wedding" Marion took the part of the go-between, Mary Irose the bride and Regis Downey, the groom. The parents were Mary Cintanie, Sam Wein, Anna Torrito and Felix Henrion. There were also 12 brides maids and 40 guests. In the cast of the Gypsy Festival Evelyn Elder was the Queen, Francis Victor Victor the fortune teller and Joseph McCarthy the Yankee peddler. In addition there were 20 gypsies and an invisible chorus. Misses Olive O'Connell and Hazel Murphy were the soloists for the lullaby. Misses Helen Woodhall and Katherine Gallagher and Master Raymond Fisher were the accompanists.

The next entertainment will be given Thursday evening March 19 by the Fifth street school. The entertainment by the pupils of Second street school will be given Friday March 27 and the one by Crest avenue school Friday April 3. The entertainments will be made up of musical numbers, drills and sketches.

Much attention is being given to the preparation of the entertainments, teachers of the various schools co-operating with Prof. I. T. Daniel, music supervisor in the schools and Prof. T. L. Pollock, superintendent of the schools in their preparation.

NEW CHURCH TO BE BUILT BY MONONGAHELA PEOPLE

The property of James Hayward at the corner of Sixth and Coal streets, at Monongahela has been sold to the congregation of the St. Nicholas church of Monongahela; consideration $8,600. It is the intention to erect a new church on that part of the lot which is vacant. The house which now stands on the property will be used as a parsonage.

Asks About That Street

Portion of Fifth Not Cleaned at Time of Snow---In Bad Shape Now

To the Editor of the Charleroi Mail:

Sir—I don't know whose business it is, but it should be some one's to abate the nuisance that exists on the south side of Fifth street between Fallowfield and Washington avenues. I refer to the section of sidewalk that for the past three weeks at least has been both impassable and dangerous. Pedestrians walking on that side are obliged to make a detour out into the street of that portion of the walk. This is one of the principal thoroughfares in the borough and the dangerous section is a great inconvenience.

KILLED IN COAL MINE AT ROSCOE

Well Known Man Has Head Crushed in Accident at Eclipse

MEMBER OF THE P. H. C.

Ezra Estell of Elco, was killed by a fall of slate in the old American mine near Roscoe this week. His head was crushed. Fellow workmen carried the suffering m an to his home where he died. He had worked but 18 days when he was killed. On the night before his death he spoke to a friend of the great danger to which he felt that he was exposed in the mine, but never referred to the matter in the presence of his family.

On January 2, 1907, Mr. Estell was married to Eliza Edwards whose home was near Courtney. Their married life was spent in Elco. Louis Estell, a brother, lives at Roodhouse, Illinois. The other two brothers, William and Frank, live in Elco. One sister, Lizzie, is still at home. Another sister, Mrs. Hiram Bell, lives in Allenport; Mrs. Raymond Blackburn is in Elco; Mrs. Edward Luellen resides in California. The deceased is also survived by his wife and one daughter, Margaret and by his mother, Mrs. Sophia Axtell of Elco.

Mr. Estell was a member of the Protected Home Circle of Charleroi, and of the Loyal Order of Moose. The funeral was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock with services at the Methodist Episcopal church, with services conducted by Rev. Logan Hall the pastor.

A GOOD LOCALITY

is no uncommon experience for a rleroi business man or citizen to e out his interests here and move some other section of the country, ally the west or south; and it is hing unusual for them to return a brief absence, if not to the e town, then to some other comity in the same locality. Charlemay not be so rapid nor so full of ger as it used to be, nor so lively ome other new towns that are just ting, but it nevertheless has a bility that is found lacking in many the western comunities. There is a diversity of interests in this le community that has a material ct upon business and prosperity t few other sections in the west or th possess.

hat is why so many people from section of Pennsylvania who go t to locate invariably return. The k of diversity of interests in the st, where business is dependent n a single industry and that usur farming, creates a condition that pears intolerable to a Pennsylvan who lived in this industrial sec- of the state. In the west if crops a failure everything is flat. There ther conditions affect business. there is a long dry spell people serve their money and do not de freely. If crops are short it is same. There are no regular pay rs to put money in circulation and s are few and far between. While there may be times that s industrial section is depressed, work scarce, the average from year to another holds up well. lustry may not be booming all the e, but there are few periods when pay days lapse entirely, or when erson willing to work cannot find a . Persons who complain that arleroi is dull should live for a e in the farming sections of the st.

PANCAKES AND RELIGION

Over at Washington an evangelist o is holding a series of meetings in of the churches there, in one of sermons, makes the unique statent that pancakes and pie have a ect bearing upon religion. He says t good food is conducive to good rals, and make the following que application:

Some years ago I gave this same k in a certain town and there was woman in the audience who spent most of her time gadding from one end of the country to the other, attending conventions and woman's clubs of all sorts and her husband was left at home to eat crackers and cheese. You can catch rats and mice with crackers and cheese but I want to tell you women that you can't catch men that way. This woman came forward at the close of my address and said: 'Mr. Jones, if I can't talk religion to my husband, what can I do?' I told the woman to go home and make some decent pancakes once in awhile. You laugh at that, but let it be understood that this is no joke, it's part of my sermon, and I will not say anything while in your town that I mean more than that very statement. I firmly believe that good food is conducive to good morals.

"There is just as much religion in making a good pie as there is in making a prayer. The thing that man needs is a good square meal and I don't want to preach to him until he gets it."

This is along the line of service, and the gospel of human love and service are so closely related that the highest type of religion may be manifested in the homely service of duty. The woman who practices love and duty in the home is following out the receipts of Christianity and this spirit may be manifested even in the lowly occupation if making pancakes or pies.

PICKED UP INPASSING

When Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania was a struggling young lawyer in his home town, it is said that a neighbor entered his office one day and asked:

"What could I do if another man's dog entered my yard and killed one of my chickens?"

Mr. Palmer replied that the damage done could be collected from the owner of the dog.

"Well," said the man, "since it was your dog, you may as well pay me the worth of the chicken, about a dollar, Mr. Palmer."

Mr. Palmer smiled as he handed the man the amount named, and said:

"Now, then, as I have paid all that I owe you, don't you think it only fair you settle up that matter of the little bill you owe me?"

"But," protested the neighbor, "I don't owe you a penny."

"Ah," smiled Mr. Palmer, "don't you? Kindly pay me $5 for the legal advice which I gave you concerning the loss of your chicken."

More than thirty women connected with the department of public health and charities ate scientifically grown vegetables, vaccinated oysters and fumigated soup at their annual good time and banquet at the Hotel Walton, the other night, says the Philadelphia North American.

On the menu, which the women health officers arranged themselves were such dishes as "sea bass a la Carns, caught in quarantine meshes," "celery and radishes, grown in accordance with act of May 20, 1913," "roasted Philadelphia chickens, declared a nuisance in cities of the first class—safe here—no chicken inspectors present."

Lung Trouble Yielded to This Medicine

If you are suffering with Lung Trouble, or if you know of some unfortunate person so afflicted, would you take the trouble of fully investigating a medicine which has brought about complete recovery in a number of very serious cases? To Eckman's Alterative, a remedy for Throat and Lung Troubles, has been given the fullest credit of restoring health in a large number of cases. Read this:—5223 Girard Ave., Phila., Pa.

"Gentlemen: In the winter of 1903 I had an attack of Grippe, followed by Pneumonia, and later by Lung Trouble. In the winter of 1904 I had cough, night sweats, fever and raised quantities of awful-looking stuff and later I had many hemorrhages; at one time three in three successive days. Milk and eggs became so distasteful I could keep nothing down. Three physicians treated me. I was ordered to the mountains, but did not go. Eckman's Alterative was recommended by a friend. After taking a small quantity I had the first quiet night's sleep for weeks. My improvement was marked from the first. I gained strength and weight and appetite. I never had another hemorrhage and my cough gradually lessened until entirely gone. I am perfectly well."

(Affidavit) ANNIE F. LOUGHRAN.

Eckman's Alterative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious for severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds and in upbuilding the system. Contains no narcotics, poisons or habit forming drugs. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for evidence. For sale by all leading druggists

Mrs. Baker So Weak—Could Not Do Her Work—Found Relief In Novel Way.

Adrian, Mich. — "I suffered terribly with female weakness and backache and got so weak that I could hardly do my work. When I washed my dishes I had to sit down and when I would sweep the floor I would get so weak that I would have to get a drink every few minutes, and before I did my dusting I would have to lie down. I got so poorly that my folks thought I was going into consumption. One day I found a piece of paper blowing around the yard and I picked it up and read it. It said 'Saved from the Grave,' and told what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for women. I showed it to my husband and he said, 'Why don't you try it?' So I did, and after I had taken two bottles I felt better and I said to my husband, 'I don't need any more,' and he said 'You had better take it a little longer anyway.' So I took it for three months and got well and strong." —Mrs. ALONZO E. BAKER, 9 Tecumseh St., Adrian, Mich.

Not Well Enough to Work.

In these words is hidden the tragedy of many a woman, housekeeper or wage earner who supports herself and is often helping to support a family, on meagre wages. Whether in house, office, factory, shop, store or kitchen, woman should remember that there is one tried and true remedy for the ills to which all women are prone, and that is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It promotes that vigor which makes work easy. The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

LEGAL NOTICE

Notice is herby given that John H. Moffitt, guardian of Dorthy Dean Dryden, a minor, presented his petition to the Orphans' Court of Washington county, Pennsylvania, to No. 14 Feb Term, 1914, praying that the court may grant an order decreeing and approving a private sale to Henry L. Frye for thesum of six thousand ($6,000.00) dollars in cash of the following described property belonging to said minor and situate in the borough of Bentleyville, Washington county, Pennsylvania.

Being the premises designated and known as Lot No. 5 in the plot of lots known as The McCormick Plan of Lots, which is recorded in Plan Book No. 3 at page 44 in the Recorder's (office) in and for said county; said lot being described thus: Fronting 50 feet on the Pittsburg-Bentleyville road and extending back 150 feet therefrom to an alley.

On said lot are erected an eight-room frame dwelling house and a stable.

And that the court has fixed Monday, March 30th, 1914, at 10 o'clock a. m. as the time for hearing and investigating the facts thereof, when and where all parties interested may attend.

KEEPS MEN SMILING

The consciousness of a bank account that affords opportunity for judicious investment and a competency for old age, keeps men smiling, even in the face of calamity.

Don't say you can't have a bank account because your salary is small, but bring a dollar to this bank today, open a savings account and add to it each week, a stated portion of your salary and you will be surprised what you'll have in a year from now.

HE HAD ALL THE BEST OF IT

Doctor Was in Position to Get Gloriously Even With Those Who Had Incurred His Displeasure.

The doctor shook his head and looked serious.

"Hum!" he said, after feeling the patient's pulse and taking his temperature. "You're a sick man."

"I—you don't say, doctor!" gasped the man as he turned pale. "Am I coming down with some serious illness?"

"You are liable to, sir, unless you follow out my directions to the letter. Let's see. Do you trade with Jones, the butcher?"

"Yes, doctor."

"You must buy your meat after this at some other shop. It will be somewhat of a change, I think. Does Smith, the grocer, get your custom?"

"He does, doctor—all of it in that line."

"Just so. I must caution you to change grocers for a while. Even that will be a little change in your diet. Who's your baker?"

"Why, Brown, on the corner."

"Then buy your bread somewhere else, so as to have a complete change in food all around. That's all, I believe. Follow those directions faithfully, take this prescription and have it filled, and you'll be a different man in a week."

And as the sick men walked out the doctor rubbed his hands and chuckled to himself:

"This is the fifth patient I have given the same advice to in the last three days. Sue me for their little bills, will they! Well, it's my opinion that by the end of the month Brown, Jones and Smith will be driven so far out of business that they will never get in again!"

COLLECTORS EVER IN MARKET

Seekers of Rare Documents Have No Conscience When a Prize Is Within Their Grasp.

The threatened lawsuit over Martha Washington's will should interest a world of collectors. Missed from Fairfax courthouse, Virginia, during the Civil war, it was long lost to view. Now it is credibly said to be in the library of J. P. Morgan. Fairfax demands its return. Mr. Morgan's librarian offers on his behalf to swap a photographic copy of it for a photograph of George Washington's will—and remains "very truly, yours."

If all the library loot that passes from hand to hand until it reposes near the longest purse were to be replevined, there would be flittings back and forth of famous "items" almost as sensational as those of "Mona Lisa." Most collectors regard manuscripts as "ferae naturae," wild gifts of nature which any man is free to bag. Even the fact that a will is a public record might not count heavily with the average collector should he get a chance to buy of another innocent purchaser the last testament, say, of Burton Gwinnet, rarest of the "signers."

By all means let suit be brought, that the possessors of rare public documents may know where they stand; whether they must gloat in secret over treasure trove or return it, or possibly have their rights strengthened by a new legal doctrine of adverse possession. Meanwhile, the will is at least safer with Mr. Morgan than it was in Fairfax in the regrettable troubles of the early sixties.—New York World.

What They Wanted.

Owing to the confusion of sounds children often get a jumble of queer ideas into their heads. Out at the children's home the other night the matron was making the round of the wards. She noticed as the little folks lisped the Lord's prayer that they were deviating slightly from the text. Listening, she discovered that they were saying, "Give us this day our jelly bread." The jelly rolls served at the institution on special occasions had become very popular among the children and they naturally supposed that they were praying for these. After all, if a prayer, as some say, is a much desired wish, why shouldn't one pray for jelly rolls as well as for plain bread?—Chicago Inter Ocean.

"The Bloody Shirt."

The origin of this phrase was given by Roscoe Conkling in a speech made in New York September 17, 1880. Referring to the bloody shirt, he said: "It is a relief to remember that this phrase, with the thing it means, is no invention of our politics. It dates back to Scotland, three centuries. After a massacre at Glenfruin, not so savage as that which has stained our annals, 220 widows rode on white palfreys to Stirling tower bearing each on a spear her husband's bloody shirt. The appeal waked Scotland's slumbering sword, and outlawry and the block made the name of Glenfruin terrible to the victorious Clan Alpine even to the third and four generations."

Credulous.

"Yep," said Enoch Flint, lounging comfortably on the porch of the Squam Corners grocery. "When I was over to Russetville I seen a mighty queer critter that they called a calf, for want of a better name. Its mother was a cow, an' it had the body an' legs of a calf, an' the feet, wings an' bill of a goose. On its head it had feathers in the place o' hair. In the daytime it bleats like a calf, an' at night it honks like a goose."

"Wal, I'll be gol-twisted!" ejaculated Jason Squanch. "I must go right home and tell mother about that."—Puck.

DROVE THE CAT TO SUICIDE

Representative Probably Did a Little Thinking After He Had Heard Policeman's Story.

"Alfalfa Bill" Murray, representative from Oklahoma, made a tour of Washington a short time ago with a party of friends. In due time they reached the Washington monument, and the Oklahoma statesman told at length of the beauties of the shaft.

At the close of his peroration, Alfalfa Bill mopped his brow and turned genially to a minion of the law nearby.

"How about it," asked he; "isn't that some little talk on this ancient pile of masonry?"

"You forgot about the cat," replied that official, imperturbably.

"What cat?"

"The brindled cat of 1856."

"Well, what about him?" queried Representative Murray.

"Oh, nothing," replied the guard, evasively.

"See here," said Mr. Murray, sternly, "I demand to know about this cat."

"It ain't much of a story," replied the guard. "Your talking there reminded me of it. Y'see this here cat lived in the monument. Well, sir, me and another chap that used to be here noticed that cat acting queerly every time a party came along and was told about the beauties of 'this vast pile of masonry,' as you was saying.

"Then one day along came a gent with some friends and talked for three-quarters of an hour along this line, when blamed if that there cat didn't run all the way up 500 odd feet of steps and commit suicide by jumping off the top of the monument."—Washington Post.

SURELY COULD ASK NO MORE

Clever Frenchman Had Done What He Promised, According to Testimony of His Fair Clients.

A wily Frenchman, whose roguerles gave him an unsavory notoriety throughout the town in which he lived, at one time claimed to have discovered a specific for the rejuvenescence of women, and, by means of sensational advertising, he succeeded in gathering a clientele of 40 or 50 old dames, who were assembled, on a certain day, in a room tricked out with astrological symbols, crucibles, alembics, and all the paraphernalia of charlatanry.

The conjurer presented himself before the ladies, and addressed them in flambuoyant language, ending as follows:

"And now, senoras of my soul, it is needful that the mystic ceremonies before us be opened by the eldest one among you."

Then, addressing her whose appearance seemed to indicate priority, he asked her age. "Thirty-seven years, senor," simpered the beldame, who was, at least, in the seventh decade. "And you, senora?"—"Thirty-six." And so on, until he had them down to a declared age of twenty years, with a maximum of thirty-seven.

"Well, ladies all, you perceive that, without further proceedings the miracle is accomplished," said Otavito; "for the least gallant of men could not call her aught but young whose years are but thirty-seven—and you see for yourselves that is the age of the oldest among you!"

Iceland's Own Flag.

A much-valued concession to Icelandic national pride has been made by King Christian of Denmark. For some years the islanders have been agitating to be allowed the use of their own flag—which is blue and white, as distinguished from the Danish colors, red and white, and they have at last gained their wish. Mr. Hannes Hafstein, the minister for Iceland, visits Denmark several times yearly, in order to get the signature of the king to the laws passed by the althing. On the last occasion he carried with him a petition for the use of the flag of Iceland, and this was granted by royal resolution, which permits the blue and white flag to be hoisted together with the Danish flag on public buildings on official occasions. It also allows the use of the special flag on the territorial waters of Iceland.

Friendly Warning.

The young Englishwoman had become very fond of American seaside hotels, with their rockers and cool piazzas, but in one respect she was critical. The story is told in the Wide World Magazine.

"If only they would clean our boots once in awhile," she cried, "instead of sending us out to have a 'ten-cent shine' at a 'shoe parlor!' I have left my shoes outside my door every night for a week, and they have not been touched."

Her new acquaintance looked at her a few moments pityingly, and cleared his throat. "I am afraid," he said, "you can hardly count on finding such honesty everywhere."

She Was No Easy Mark.

Martha is seven, and has shown more than ordinary childish aversion to learning lessons, being washed and having curls made smooth and shiny, and less than the average delight in fairy-tales.

One day upon her return from Sunday school she was questioned as to what she had learned from her nice teacher this time. She cried out with flashing eyes and an indignant toss of her pretty head, "Why, mamma; my teacher told me today that story about the Children of Israel walking across the Red sea and not getting their selves wet one single bit—and she es-pected me to believe it!"

FINANCIAL PANIC OF 1837

Year That Many Banks Failed and Specie Payments Were Practically Entirely Suspended.

Political rancor was at its height when Andrew Jackson vetoed the bill renewing the charter of the United States bank and removed the treasury deposits, under which opposition the bank collapsed and a vast number of state banks competed for the business, which included the issue of bank notes. In 1837 there were 624 banks, with an aggregate capital of $291,000,000.

In the history of banking the year of 1837 is prominent for one of the worst panics that was ever known in America, which resulted in the failure of many banks and a universal suspension of specie payments throughout the country, which were not renewed until over a year and a half later, says the National Magazine. During this trying period, when banking operations were practically wiped out of existence, all the banks but three continued doing business in Boston. There were temporary suspensions of specie payments in 1857, known as the panic of '57; also in '61, when Boston followed the lead of New York, since it was evident that further attempt to tide the popular panic would mean ruin to all the interests involved. There are men still living today who remember with a shudder the trying times of '57, when the merchants met in the Boston merchant's exchange day after day, insisting that the banks must be sustained; until finally Amasa Walker rose up and said: "Gentlemen, the banks must suspend specie payments. There is no other course to be followed." There were murmurs of discontent and they were almost ready to lynch the ex-governor of the commonwealth for the bold position he had taken, but he faced them courageously, and next came the news of the suspension of the New York banks.

CURIOS FROM SOUTH POLE

Geologists and Students of World Physics Welcome Collection Recently Received in England.

Representative selection from the various objects brought home by the scientific staff attached to the Scott Antarctic expedition is now on exhibition at the British Natural History museum, South Kensington. The objects include the rock fragments brought back to within 11 miles of One Ton depot by Dr. Wilson. These fragments are from Buckley island, or Mount Buckley, which appears out of the ice cap where the glacier begins to descend toward the barrier ice. This "island" as it were parts the stream of ice. There appear to be other summits entirely buried beneath the ice stream. The fragments tell us of warm weather conditions, of Devonian fishes which swam gayly in the waters of a remote period when the polar area was far different from what it is now. These fragments are of the highest importance to geologists and students of world physics. Among other interesting objects is the skin of a young Weddell seal. The fur is of an attractive light brown color. The birds brought home by the expedition are not yet stuffed. One is a very fine emperor penguin, whose breast feathers glisten under the electric light. A gray-headed mollymauk is another fine bird. The only known insect (wingless) proper to the Antarctic is also shown. There are two sponges from the ice seas of Antarctics.

Not Sam's Fault.

Sam Snedeker, the commissary man, and held in the community to be a good churchman, annoyed the minister extremely by getting up and walking out of the church while the sermon was in progress. The preacher spoke to Sam about it.

"It isn't my fault, doc," Sam protested. "It's a sort of affliction I got."

The preacher told Sam he'd better see the camp doctor. A few days later the preacher met the doctor.

"Did Sam Snedeker come to you for advice?" asked the preacher.

"Yes," said the doctor, "but I told Sam I couldn't do anything for him."

"What was Sam's affliction?"

"Affliction! He didn't say anything about that. Sam said he'd been troubling you by walking in his sleep."—New York Post.

When She Moved.

"It requires courage to complain of a woman's hat if it inconveniences you ever so much," says a London Chronicle writer. "Most of us suffer silently, but I saw a brave man one morning on a tram car, who called the conductor's attention to a plume which kept jabbing him in the eye. The conductor suggested he should move, but the man objected on principle, and the woman declined to stir. A scene seemed imminent, which every one was preparing to enjoy, when the conductor whispered to her, 'You should always oblige a gentleman.' She appreciated the humor, and took a seat with a vacancy on either side."

He Knew.

Charles S. Mellen, at a dinner in Boston, said of a bankrupt:

"His bankruptcy was like that which the parent described.

"'Pa, what's a bankruptcy?' a little boy once asked.

"And pa, who had been 'bit' that week, answered bitterly:

"'Bankruptcy, my son, is where you put your money in your hip pocket and let your creditors take your wallet and run.'"

A NOTRE DAME LADY'S APPEAL.

To all knowing sufferers of rheumatism, whether muscular or of the joints, sciatica, lumbago, backache, pains in the kidneys or neuralgia pains, to write to her for a home treatment which has repeatedly cured all of these tortures. She feels it her duty to send it to all sufferers FREE. You cure yourself at home as thousands will testify—no change of climate being necessary. This simple discovery banishes uric acid from the blood, loosens the stiffened joints, purifies the blood, and brightens the eyes, giving elasticity and tone to the whole system. If the above interests you, for proof address Mrs. M. Summers, Box B, Notre Dame, Ind.

THEORIES OF LIFE'S ORIGIN

Scientists Disagree and Vexed Question Goes Back to the Belief of the Great Majority.

Until very recently progress had not been important as to the vexed question of the origin of life. Although Professor Haeckel and his group of Monists have insisted that life is the result purely and solely of chemical action and reaction, most scientists have not held this view. Laboratory experimenting has been to the contrary. Much has been learned as to the nature and function of life in many ways, but its origin still a mystery, unless the researches of Prof. Jacques Loeb are to be taken as conclusive.

This extraordinary investigator has accomplished some hitherto unheard-of things. He has made life persist under abnormal circumstances, such as keeping the heart of a chicken alive for weeks after the death of the fowl, fertilizing the eggs of frogs, etc. But these, remarkable as they are, are not wholly convincing. They do not show that the origin of life is by chemical action. They explain nothing as to the beginning of life on the earth. Prof. Arrhenius thinks that life came here in spores borne by cosmic dust, but this is simply throwing back the problem without us a beginning. Sir Oliver L. from a coldly scientific v come to the conclusion tha a spiritual element in nature which fies mere laws of physics.

If some light can be throw vexed question it will be to all, although most of ready satisfied that life ca from a Creator who rules the universe.

REALLY ARE TRADE NAMES

Designations of Various Kinds of Fur Misleading to Those Not Familiar With Them.

The names given the various qualities of furs are more in the nature of trade names that have become recognized in the trade and are presumed to be known to the layman as not being in fact what they would seem to imply.

For example, what is called "Russian sable" is in many instances American sable; what is called "bear" is quite frequently dyed goat, and it should be borne in mind that "fox" is often dyed hare; "mink," "sable" or "skunk," dyed marmot; "sable," dyed mink; "mink" or "sable," dyed musquash; "electric," "Red River" and "Hudson Seal," pulled and dyed musquash or pulled and dyed nutria or sheared and dyed rabbit; "beaver" and "otter," pulled or natural nutria; "beaver," sheared and dyed opossum; "seal," pulled and dyed otter; "sable" or "French sable," dyed rabbit; "ermine," white rabbit; "chinchilla," white rabbit dyed; "skunk," dyed wallaby; "fox," white hare, and "silver fox," fox or sable with white hairs inserted to give it the silver appearance.

In some instances this is, of course, not at all as it should be, whereas there might be some excuse for calling Angora goat "Persian goat," since this animal originated in the vilayet of Angora in Asia.

BERRYMAN'S

start, threatening a forfeit and changing his mind. Finally, acting courteously. Charleroi succumbed to the inevitable.

The game started. Wagner was the first man to do any scoring of any kind. But he only counted one, it happening to be a foul. J Albright shortly threw in a foul for Monon.

After the first few minutes Monongahela acquired the lead and hung to it. During the first quarter Gaut and Stahlman each made a field goal. These were the last field goals made by Charleroi during the half. The first quarter ended with the score 9 to 8, favor Monongahela. The first half ended with the ratio for Monon slightly increased, the score being 16 to 10.

Ryland, who played a good game in the first half, was according to previous arrangement taken off in the second half to give a fresh man a chance. Lowstuter went in.

Some way or other Monongahela seemed to be able to keep a fair lead during the entire half. Wickerham led in the basket shooting for Monongahela, all that Spers could to do to stop him proving unavailing. Stahlman of Charleroi managed to get away three times from the fast guard that stuck to him, and shot three baskets. Wagner only got one good chance at a field goal and you just bet he captured that.

Fouls were important in the game. J. Albright seemed to be at his best in this department with 19 out of 26 attempts Wagner, owing to his tremendous hard playing during the entire struggle, got only about half of his, his record being 14 out of 29.

The refereeing was good. Larimer, as referee and Wagner as umpire worked well together. Neither team was given an advantage. Generally speaking the game was good and good nature was manifested throughout, which considering the intense rivalry was all the more striking.

Charleroi suffered slightly in the breaking up of its heretofore impregnable teamwork. Monongahela covered positions so well that field shots for the C. H. S. lads were extremely difficult.

There is the possibility of another game. Charleroi beat Monongahela on the Charleroi floor some weeks ago by the score of 37 to 23. There still exists the rivalry there was before, and the championship of the county is still in doubt. If another game is played, obviously it will mean the selection of a neutral floor. The lineup:

Monongahela—33		Charleroi—26
Wickerham	F	Wagner
J. Albright	F	Stahlman
Gramley	C	Gaut
Billick	G	Speers
R. Albright	G	Ryland, Lowstuter

Field goals—Wickerham 5, J Albright, Gramley, Wagner, Stahlman 4, Gaut. Goals from fouls—J. Albright 19 of 26, Wagner 14 of 29. Referee—Larimer. Umpire—Wagner.

HUMPING SALE STARTS WITH CAMEL RETURNS

Claybaugh and Milliken's humping business sale opened today under auspicious circumstances, and it will continue for eight days. The sale has been widely advertised and made particularly notable through camel pictures, which were to be returned today. Each camel meant something for the holder in the way of bargains. When the store opened at 9 oclock this morning numerous camels were returned.

The store is well arranged for the sale, with the numerous bargains in shoes displayed to the best possible advantage. Claybaugh and Milliken are making "humping" reductions in all kinds of footware and the season of reductions will continue until the expiration of the eight days.

REVIVAL WORK BEGINS AT THE NORMAL TOWN

The United churches of California Granville, Coal Centre, Roscoe and Phillipsburg, which are preparing to hold a series of union evangelistic meetings under direction of Evangelist Hall at California, have decided to start the meetings on Sunday, March 29, one week earlier than the original plan. A call has been issued for 100 volunteers to report at the tabernacle site at 8 o'clock Monday morning when the actual construction work will begin. It is expected that the big tabernacle will be completed in two days' time.

The lumber for the tabernacle has been rented from John A. Powell & Sons, California contractors and will be returned after the tabernacle has been torn down.

Dr. Hall the evangelist is now engaged in a highly sucessful revival campaign at Homestead and will come to California immediately at its close.

COUNCIL TURNS DOWN PLAN FOR ANNEXATION

For the second time within a few months Borough council of California turned down the petition of property owners in the Rothwell Plan for annexation. This was done at the regular monthly meeting on Tuesday night. It is doubtful if the proposition will be presented again soon, as lot owners and the Monessen Improvement company have been effectually convinced of the fact that the borough does not desire the annexation of the Rothwell Plan upon the terms offered.

TRIPPING OVER BAGGAGE COSTS RAILROAD $5,143

BREVITY LEADS TO ACCURACY

Form of Old-Fashioned Indictment, With All Its Jargon of Law, is Out of Date.

Those who know nothing of the superstitious awe with which the legal fraternity regard the forms of procedure can scarcely appreciate the high courage required of the district attorney of Kings county, New York, to break with tradition and draw up an indictment, say, for murder, with the aid of only sixty simple words, the Philadelphia Record remarks. In the old form the grand jury makes its accusation briefly enough, but the description of the felonious act is fearfully and woefully designed A long paragraph freely interluded with such terms as "force of arms" and other phrases from the jargon of the law, is required for the mere statement that the defendant committed an assault with intent to kill.

The old-fashioned indictment describes the course of the bullet in about 600 words, stating how the defendant "a certain pistol then and there charged and loaded with gunpowder and one leaden bullet"—which is manifestly an untruth. The weapon with which the killing is accomplished is not loaded in the presence of the victim, but is charged with ready-made cartridges. Nor does it contain only one leaden bullet, for it is usually a revolver holding five or six shots.

This painful striving after accuracy, which, after all, merely breeds inaccuracies and results in appeals for error and endless retrials, is intolerable in an age which lays such stress on efficiency. We criticise the artisan who goes through twelve motions in laying a brick when the feat could be accomplished in three or four motions; but the legal tautologist gets paid proportionately to the greatness of his waste of words.

The sin of tautology permeates every department of the law, and it is one of the prime causes of the expensiveness and dilatoriness of litigation. The reform of legal procedure is practically in the hands of the courts and the lawyers themselves.

AS IT WAS 300 YEARS AGO

Definitely Settled That Women May Not Practice Law in the Courts of England.

Women cannot practice law in the courts of England This doctrine was recently affirmed by the court of appeal which decided against Miss G M Bebb in a suit which she had brought against the Law society and in which she claimed the right to practice as a solicitor. The master of the rolls said that 300 years ago Lord Coke had expressed the view that women could not be attorneys, and so far as this case was concerned, the master of the rolls said he decided it on the ground that, at the date of the passing of the solicitors' act of 1843, there was a disability on the part of women to be attorneys.

The act had not destroyed the pre-existing disability. He disclaimed any right to legislate in the matter No doubt many women, and in particular the present applicant, were in education, intelligence and competency superior to many candidates who would come up for examination But with that the court had nothing to do

The lord justices concurred and the appeal was dismissed.

Early Suffragette.

Militant-minded women were known in England before the suffragettes, one of whom lies in Henry VII's chapel—Margaret, countess of Richmond, its builder's mother, with her brass effigy by Torrigiano. She hated the Turk, and she made, as Camden reports, a sporting offer to the chivalrous of her day: "On the condition that princes of Christendom would combine themselves and march against the common enemy, the Turk, she would most willingly attend them and be their laundress in camp." That position of laundress to the Crusaders would have been an easy one, for it was the fashion to make vows to change no underclothing until the holy sepulcher was regained Korean Marriages.

Marriages between widows and bachelors are very much in favor in Korea because not nearly so much money is required from the bridegroom as in the case of his marriage with a young girl. The impecunious bridegroom is scorned by the parents of the girl and he is also unable to pay for the elaborate wedding ceremonies which must take place. All of this he escapes by running off with a widow. It happens in Korea, as in other countries, that the impecunious bachelor is often more desirable from every point of view but a mercenary one than the well to do member of the community. Consequently, the widow has a way of attaching a handsome young husband to herself that might well be envied by the young girl.

Smile, and Others Will Smile.

In an elevator of one of our large stores I saw a lady turn her head and in so doing, struck another lady's face with her feather, the lady struck was angry and scowled at the first lady, and in so doing turned her head and struck with her hat ornament another lady. This lady turned her head and struck another lady's face; this lady was annoyed, but she had seen the others, and as she looked up she saw two gentlemen with broad smiles on their faces, and she smiled. and soon the others in the car saw the humorous side, and there were smiles upon smiles in that gloomy store elevator.

FINAL ACT IS PERFORMED IN BIG COAL DEAL

James A Campbell of Youngstown, Ohio, placed on record at the recorder's office in Greene county during the week a deed for the transfer of 1,340 acres of coal lands located in Monongahela and Cumberland townships to the Buckeye Coal company. This coal underlies 48 tracts of surface in those two townships.

Mr. Campbell is connected with the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company and it is supposed that the Buckeye Coal company is an allied company The consideration named in the deed was $1.

Mr. Campbell purchased this coal from Josiah V Thompson, of Uniontown, by a deed bearing date of November 22, 1913

MARION LEONARD AT THE PALACE THEATRE

As a special attraction at the Palace theatre Monday, Manager Barnhart will present Miss Marion Leonard, the gifted emotional actress in "A Leaf in The Storm" a drama in three parts. This feature is considered one of the finest productions that Miss Leonard has had an opportunity to appear. The story is woven around the sacrifice made by a woman for a man. Miss Leonard is surrounded by an all star cast of screet artists who give her excellent support in this dramatic masterpiece. In addition to this feature there will be another four reel photo play entitled "Jess." featuring Constance Crawley and Arthur Maude. Special music for these photoplays will be rendered by the Palace orchestra.

FIRE ALARM TURNED IN; FIRE IS UNIMPORTANT

A fire alarm from 816 Meadow avenue this morning attracted the firemen to that point to discover that a blaze has been discovered on the roof of the house, which is owned by Mrs. Della Hobbs. Shingles of the roof had caught fire from some unknown source. Practically no damage was done.

RESULTS TELL

There Can Be No Doubt About the Results in Charleroi.

Results tell the tale.
All doubt is removed.
The testimony of a Charleroi citizen.
Can be easily investigated.
What better proof can be had?
Mrs. Rowe, 1005 McKean Ave., Charleroi, Pa., says: "For some time one of the family thought he had rheumatism. He suffered from severe pains in his back and limbs and found it hard to stoop to put on his shoes. Every fall and winter he was bothered. He finally got Doan's Kidney Pills from Piper's Pharmacy and began taking them. In a short time he felt much better. I used this remedy some years ago and know that it lives up to the claims made for it."

Confirmed Proof.

On January 29, 1914, Mrs. Rowe said: "I am willing to have you continue using my name recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. They have never failed to rid us of kidney disorders. I advise anyone being bothered with their kidneys to try this remedy."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Rowe had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.
